Monthly Message

What was your favorite talk from conference? Mine was Sister Tamara Runia.

- Not understanding isn't not believing
- A trial is not a detour on the path, it gives purpose to the path
- Through the gospel lens, trials can go from happening to you, to something that happens for you

8/9 EQ Lesson Summary

Instructor: Bro Griffin Talk: Jesus Christ Is the Way – Brian J Holmes We talked about Elder Holmes message around a blind runner he observed during a marathon in Switzerland that he ran and the parallels in our life. “Like that marathon, our journey through life has moments of beauty and joy but is no walk in the park. We all want to cross the heavenly finish line and gain eternal life. Yet the course is often steep and difficult to navigate. We all face trials. Without a power greater than our own, no one successfully finishes this race.”

8/23 EQ Lesson Summary

Instructor: Bro Morgan

Talk: Come Home – Elder Clark C. Gilbert

Elder Gilbert’s focus on those who have fallen from the path because they feel that they don’t belong, for those who feel that they don’t measure up, for those who have doubts, and those who are trapped by traditions.

President Oaks declared that the journey home starts by re-anchoring on the Savior. Only Jesus Christ can fully restore that light and joy into your life. We all struggle. We need patience, service, and love from others. To those who are trying to help those they love, hold on to the truth. Keep your covenants. Helping others requires you to stay in your covenants. To those who are struggling to come home, know that it is your Savior who’s the one calling you back. In the end, everyone must make their own choices to come home.

9/6 EQ Lesson Summary

Instructor: Bro Ulrich

Talk: Special Topic on new block schedule

We watched a video on the new EQ/RS lesson format, and then had a discussion on it. The discussion questions:

- What can we do during the week to prepare for Relief Society or elders quorum?
- How will meeting weekly help us strengthen our fellowship with one another?

9/13 EQ Lesson Summary

Instructor: Bro Griffin Talk: Ministering—"That Ye Love One Another" – Kristin M Yee "We are not called to or released from ministering. It is part of fulfilling the covenants we made at baptism and in the temple. We covenanted to take upon us the Savior's name—becoming as He is as we sacrifice and consecrate our lives to Him. When we minister as He would, we begin to think, feel, and love as He would."

9/27 EQ Lesson Summary

Instructor: Bro Griffin Talk: Lost Luggage, Redeemed Souls – Gary E Stevenson "We each possess a tag that marks us as a child of a loving Heavenly Father. Printed upon that tag is a spiritual promise and sacred proclamation that testifies, "This precious soul has great worth to one day be redeemed by its holder," never to be forgotten, neglected, or lost."

✨ October Come Follow Me – Comfort Ye

Isaiah 40 opens with two of the most tender words in all of scripture: "Comfort ye" (Isaiah 40:1). Not "fix ye." Not "correct ye." Not even "teach ye." Comfort. It was the first thing God asked His servants to do for His people in one of the darkest periods of Israel's history.

That hasn't changed.

As Melchizedek Priesthood holders, we carry a lot of role descriptions — ministers, providers, leaders, ordinance workers. But underneath all of it is something simpler and more urgent: we are called to bring comfort to the people in our stewardship. To our wives. Our children. Our quorum brothers who are quietly struggling. Our neighbors who don't know where else to turn.

Comfort doesn't always look like having the right answer. Isaiah's vision of the Savior is one of a shepherd who "shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom" (Isaiah 40:11). That's not a lecture. That's presence. That's showing up and staying.

This month, think of one person in your life who could use that kind of comfort right now. Not a solution — just your presence and your attention. A text. A visit. A meal. An hour of your time. You don't have to have it figured out. You just have to show up.

That's what we're here for.

Preparing for El Nino This Winter

We're headed into a strong El Nino winter, maybe the biggest one in years. For us here in western Washington, that usually means less snow and rain than normal. Sounds like good news. But don't let that talk you into slacking off on prep.

Fewer storms doesn't mean zero storms. And the ones that do show up tend to hit warmer and wetter, which is exactly what causes flooding, downed power lines, and washed-out roads around this area. It only takes one storm to catch you off guard if you got comfortable because the season was supposed to be easy.

A few things to do now:

- Check your gutters and drainage. Easy Saturday afternoon project.
- Go over your family's communication plan. Simple, but critical.
- Make sure your kit and food/water storage are up to date. If you haven't started prepping, see last month's newsletter article.
- If you live near a creek, ditch, or low spot, know your flood risk. Many people in our stake were seriously affected by last year's flooding.

An easy-sounding winter is still a winter worth being ready for. As always, the time to start preparing is now. May the Lord bless you as you make this very important effort. Feel free to contact Rick Woodruff at 253-334-3855 if you have any questions.
