Monthly Message

Brethren,

This week I watched an interview with Andy Reid, head coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, ahead of his appearance with the Tabernacle Choir on July 5. I expected football. What I got was a quiet lesson on discipleship.

He said his life runs on three priorities: faith, family, and football, in that order. If something doesn't fit one of those three, he simply doesn't do it. For a man with one of the most demanding jobs in sports, that kind of clarity is striking. It made me ask myself where my own lines are, and whether the good things in my life are crowding out the most important ones.

He also talked about the four reminders he keeps in the locker room: eliminate distractions, create energy, fear nothing, attack everything. Then he said, "There's nobody better at eliminating distractions than Christ." He spoke about being an energy giver rather than an energy taker, and about the difference between running from our fears and facing them.

When asked for a favorite hymn, he chose "Put Your Shoulder to the Wheel." He put it plainly: get to work, do it with a heart full of song, and don't give up. And when asked who the greatest coach he's ever known is, he didn't hesitate. "There's no greater coach than Christ."

That's my invitation to us this month. Keep our priorities in order, be the kind of brothers who create energy in this quorum, and keep our shoulders to the wheel. We follow the greatest coach there is.

Grateful to serve with you,

Chris

Upcoming EQ Lessons

 Date	 Instructor	Scheduled Topic
8/9	Cary Griffin	Jesus Christ Is the Way – Brian J Holms
8/23	Jeff Morgan	Come Home – Clark C Gilbert
9/6	Cary Griffin	Encounter at the Empty Tomb – Dieter F Uchtdorf

EQ Lesson 6/28 – Alive in Christ

Instructor: Trent Hainer Talk: Alive in Christ – Dallin H Oaks President Oaks opens with the Resurrection as a pillar of faith — teaching that the universal resurrection changes our entire perspective on mortality — before turning to the pressing challenge of how we treat one another in a contentious world. The heart of the talk is a call to be peacemakers, anchored in the Savior's revolutionary command to "love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you." President Oaks illustrates this principle with a moving story of a nurse who came to see a deeply difficult patient as a child of God, and closes by inviting all followers of Christ to forgo harsh words and contention in their relationships and instead seek to be holy, like the Savior.

EQ Lesson 7/12 – Because of Jesus Christ

Instructor: Cary Griffin

Talk: Because of Jesus Christ - Dale G Renlund

Elder Renlund uses the image of his family's dog Lady — paralyzed trying to chase two balls at once — to illustrate how modern life can overwhelm us. His answer is to center our focus on the Savior, grounded in the doctrinal assurance that "all mankind may be saved" through Christ's atoning sacrifice — and as Elder Renlund emphasizes, "all means everyone, if everyone then anyone, if anyone then even you" — making the Atonement not an abstract theological concept but a deeply personal promise that brings joy and clarity no matter how many other concerns we carry.

EQ Lesson 7/16 – He Knows You by Name

Instructor: Adam Ulrich

Talk: He Knows You by Name Clement M. Matswagothata

"Not only does the Savior know you, but He also wants you to come to know Him and His Father. ... He is the Good Shepherd, who leads us to green pastures and still waters. He is the Light of the World, who lights our path so that we need not walk in darkness."

"The question should never be 'Will the Savior walk with me?' He will. The real question is 'Will I walk with Him?' As we choose to walk with Jesus Christ, everything begins to change. He is no longer a casual acquaintance but a trusted heavenly friend. May I invite you to choose to remember Him and follow Him—not casually or occasionally but deliberately and always."

✨ August Come Follow Me - Show Up Anyway

Esther didn't have to say anything. She was safe, comfortable, and hidden. Nobody in the palace knew she was Jewish. Mordecai's challenge to her cuts right to the heart of what it means to be a covenant person: "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" (Esther 4:14). She could have stayed quiet. She showed up anyway.

Then there's Job. Stripped of everything — health, family, livelihood — his friends told him to either confess some secret sin or just give up. Job did neither. He argued, he wrestled, he demanded answers from God. And he kept showing up to that conversation even when heaven felt silent.

August's Come Follow Me is essentially a month-long study of men and women who did the hard thing when the easy thing was available. That's not an accident for us. As holders of the Priesthood, we have made covenants that call us to show up — for our families, for each other, for the people in this ward who need us whether they've said so or not.

This month, as you study Esther and Job, ask yourself: where is God asking me to show up right now? In my home? With a quorum brother I haven't checked on? In a conversation I've been avoiding?

We don't have to have it all figured out. Esther fasted and prayed first. Job brought his honest questions to the Lord. Neither of them waited until they felt ready. They just showed up.
